

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 15, 1901,

THE FACT has recently been made public that for years past a blind railroad has been in operation along the border line between Maine and Canada, by which thousands of Chinese have been smuggled into the United States to compete with American labor. The white working men of this country have hard work to contend against the negroes of the South, the Chinese of the West, and the Poles and Huns of Europe. But the few skilled laborers from England who try to enter American ports, are arrested on arrival and sent back.

MRS. NATION having set all laws for the protection of the liquor dealers, who pay a large share of the expenses of the government, at flagrant defiance, with impunity, her followers are now attempting to scare Congress into a futile effort to prohibit the use of liquor at the proposed St. Louis exposition. If prohibition cannot prohibit in the sparsely settled State of Maine, how can it be expected to do so in the densely populated city of St. Louis? and why should visitors in that city be denied liquor, when those in the Capitol at Washington can get all they Either Admiral Schley must be bracketed with Admiral Sampson and given equal honors, through the simultaneous elevation of both of them to be Vice Admirals, or the effort of the President to put Sampson over Schley will be defeated tin the Senate. The controversy, which has been renewed by the action of the President in again asking the Senate to promote the officers of the Santiago fleet, has broken out with fresh vigor in the Senate. Senators Wellington and McComas, of Maryland, which is Schley's home, and Senator Pottigraw declare that the Senstors Weltington and mecomas, or Maryland, which is Schley's home, and Senator Pettigrew declare that the nomination, which would reverse present conditions by putting Sampaon ahead of Schley, cannot be confirmed. Because of the shortness of the session and the fact that there are a number of democrats who will support them in their fight, these three men can easily vertify their prediction.
